

Today, it's just not enough to provide great services. We need to demonstrate value to our consumers and partners, whether we deliver products or services. CAST Clinical Services calls on Cuning Consulting to show the value of the services we provide. Offering therapeutic counselling, our clients expect to see progress in their wellness and movement towards their goals. Cuning Consulting is a key tool and partner in helping us make sense of how we are succeeding in relation to outcome of clients.

We are in good attentive hands at Cuning Consulting since information is delivered and shared with respect to our understanding, while raising the bar of data collection within the organization. Demonstrating value in statistical, measurable data has increased funding opportunities, solidified ongoing contracts and allowed modifications of services that are pertinent in helping us continue to better ourselves. We are accountable and we are in a position to defend what we know to be true in our observations. We will continue to rely on Cuning Consulting to grow and flourish as an organization.

Thank you.

Lynne Castonguay MSW, CCAC, RSW